First Year at Monmouth is a department that is a key resource for first-year students at Monmouth University. Overseeing the First-Year Advising, Freshman Seminar, and Major and Career Choices programs, First Year at Monmouth also works in cooperation with various University divisions to ensure that first-year students experience the challenges and opportunities, and have access to the support needed to succeed at Monmouth. Students are encouraged to partake in academic and co-curricular activities that are specifically designed by the First Year office to promote a student’s growth and learning and to aid in successfully adapting to University life.

The First Year at Monmouth office is a place where students can call, stop by, or e-mail with any questions or concerns about their academic or college life. Students are greeted by an enthusiastic, welcoming and well-informed staff that provides clear information about what to expect at Monmouth and what the University expects of its students.

Dr. Judith Nye is the Associate Vice President for the First Year at Monmouth and has been involved with the office since its inception in the Fall of 2005. Dr. Nye received her Ph.D. in Psychology from Virginia Commonwealth University in 1988. She began her career at Monmouth University in the Department of Psychology in 1987; she currently holds the rank of Associate Professor there. Trained as a social psychologist, Dr. Nye’s research focuses on social cognition, specifically how leaders are perceived and evaluated by their followers. More recently, her research has shifted to first-year and college adjustment issues. However, her true passion is for teaching. “While preparing to be a teacher, I was mentored by an outstanding teacher”, says Dr. Nye. “The payback of knowing you have made a difference in a student’s life is a tremendous reward.” One of the highlights of Dr. Nye’s career at Monmouth University came in 2004 when she was honored with the Monmouth University Distinguished Teacher Award. Dr. Nye says, “It was a humbling experience.”

As the Associate Vice President, Dr. Nye oversees the Department which provides a comprehensive first-year experience. In addition to advising all first-year students, the department coordinates the curriculum for Freshman Seminar, provides career and major choices resources, and leads summer orientation programming. Dr. Nye is especially proud of the two-day July orientation recently implemented for new students.

Judy and her husband Rick reside in Long Branch. They raise Keeshonden dogs and compete with them for conformation, obedience, and agility titles. When Judy gets the opportunity to relax she enjoys reading, gardening, and training the dogs for competition.

Bea Rogers is the Assistant Vice President of the First Year at Monmouth and has worked at the University for 15 years. Bea started her career at Monmouth as a graduate assistant in the School of Business and was later hired in the Life and Career Advising Center full-time. Bea remains focused on student development today. She explained that “First Year at Monmouth looks at many dimensions of a new student’s transition to campus life (academic, personal, career and social) and offers a comprehensive program designed to support that transition.”

Bea loves working with both faculty and students. “It is so satisfying to make a difference in a student’s life,” says Bea. As the Assistant Vice President, Bea coordinates more than 40 sections of Freshman Seminar, working with the faculty and peer advisors who support the program, and collaborates with numerous offices to provide programming for the seminars. Recently, Bea has become more involved with the New Student Orientation Program, working with student leaders and a planning group that coordinates the two-day orientation program that is held for new students during July. Bea also coordinates the First Year Parent Programs, held in June designed to help families with their transition.

In her down time, Bea enjoys reading and digital photography. One little-known fact about Bea is that she completed the New York City Marathon when she ran competitively. Her newest interest is Pilates, which she tries to make time for in her busy life. Bea and her husband Tom have a four-year-old daughter Katherine Noelle, whom they call Katie. They like to read together as a family in the evenings and Bea relates, “I love all of the moments with our little Peanut!”

Deborah Kavourias is the Director of the First Year at Monmouth and has been with the department since its inception. Before joining Monmouth, Debbie spent three years at Berkeley College and was the Assistant Principal at Mother Cabrini High School in Manhattan. She describes the First Year as a hub for first-year students to gather, ask questions and get comfortable in their new surroundings. “First Year and its staff creates a very welcoming environment.”

Debbie oversees the academic advising of first-year students. She is the point person for all formal correspondence with other departments. Debbie believes it is important to get to know the whole student in order to be able to help them achieve their potential. Debbie credits the wonderful faculty advisors as the secret to the student’s success. The First Year at Monmouth Office holds weekly Academic Success Seminars to help students who have struggled academically improve their grades with study skills techniques, time management and other adjustment issues.

Debbie has a gift for working with students and helping others. She considers herself fortunate to be able to do what she loves and to love what she does every day. “I enjoy working with students one-on-one and assisting them in their transition from high school to college and it is rewarding to watch them progress and succeed onto graduation.”

Debbie lives in Manhattan and commutes to Monmouth every day. She enjoys bike riding and going to the beach. She also likes to do home improvements and paint.

Danielle Schrama is the Coordinator of the First Year at Monmouth. Danielle is also an alumnus, as she completed her undergraduate and graduate studies at Monmouth University. She worked in the LCAC as a graduate assistant and when she completed her Master’s Degree, was hired in the Placement Office and worked there for five years under William Hill. Before her employment at Monmouth University, Danielle worked in corporate America for Merrill Lynch and Paul Sebastian Fragrances.

As the Coordinator of First Year, Danielle guides undeclared students in career and major choices and helps students match their skills, abilities and interests with career choices and future employment opportunities. She also supports First Year initiatives and programs. Danielle teaches both Freshman Seminar and Career Search and assists students in learning how to set early goals. Danielle conveys how rewarding it is to help a student with their career goals and the sense of accomplishment in seeing a student graduate and go from student to employee.

Danielle feels a strong connection to Monmouth University. She grew up in West Long Branch and has been a part of the MU community for many years. Danielle and her husband Marty enjoy playing golf, tennis and traveling. Danielle enjoys going to the beach in the summer and spending time with family and friends.

Deborah Molinaro is the Administrative Assistant to the Associate Vice President of First Year at Monmouth. Debby has worked at Monmouth for more than ten years in various departments across campus but seems to have found a home in the First Year office. Before coming to Monmouth, Debby worked in the corporate environment, managed a group home for profoundly and severely handicapped children, and taught high school math.

Debby is enthusiastic about the First Year office and feels the department is unique in its commission to interact and transition first year students from high school to the college experience. She admires the vision of Dr. Nye and appreciates the process of bringing that vision to reality. Debby says, "I really love the academic environment – the books, the reading, and the learning."

Debby is also a student here at MU and will complete her master’s degree in Liberal Arts in May 2008. “I think my husband is more excited than I am about completing this degree,” says Debby. "It’s been a long time coming." She and husband Bill love the beach where they enjoy long walks and conversations. Debby also enjoys yoga, weightlifting, and spending time with her family.

Jo Ann Migliara is the Office Coordinator for the First Year at Monmouth and began working at the University in 1984. She too has been with the First Year Office since its inception and really enjoys the people that she works with.

The Department serves approximately 1,000 first-year students and Jo Ann gets great satisfaction helping them navigate their way through the available resources at Monmouth University. There are also 35 faculty advisors that she works with in a supporting role. Jo Ann reports to the Director of the First Year at Monmouth and coordinates the SAM Program which consists of five Student Advising Mentors. She also coordinates all the advisor appointments through the Tutor-Trac computer program which enables students to make and track their own appointments.

Jo Ann and her husband Stephen have three children and three grandchildren. She spends her free time traveling and boating with her husband and her family. Jo Ann also enjoys cooking, entertaining, crocheting, and reading. Jo Ann’s very special joy is the magical time that she spends with her grandchildren.

Billie Jean Kamin is the First Year at Monmouth's department secretary. Billie Jean has worked at Monmouth for twenty years and has been with the First Year Office since its beginning. Billie Jean spent time in the Office of the Registrar, Placement, Freshman Seminar and Cooperative Education which evolved into Experiential Education. She keeps the Department’s calendar and supports the career and major exploration program by coordinating the student COPS testing and FOCUS testing.

Billie Jean and her husband Ron recently moved to Barnegat and are enjoying their new home. Together they have three daughters, Alaine, Sharon and Amanda. She is also very close to her siblings. To relax Billie Jean does yoga, and likes to walk. She also enjoys reading.

Jeanette Villanueva is the Administrative Assistant to the Assistant Vice President of First Year at Monmouth. She has worked at the University for 21 years, at first in EOF, then Admission. She also spent 11 years as the Assistant to the Dean of the Schlaefr School and remembers that time as a very fulfilling experience; she enjoyed working with the students the most.

In the First Year office, Jeanette works closely with the student Peer Advisors for Freshman Seminar. It’s a part of the job that she most enjoys, watching the enthusiasm and motivation of the students, watching them develop into fine young men and women. Jeanette also supports both the parent and student orientation program invitations, reservations, set ups, food orders and more. Most recently Jeanette worked at Monmouth’s first Latino Parents Day in January, which she enjoyed to the fullest. She is very involved in the Monmouth University community for many years. Jeanette worked at Monmouth’s first Latino Parents Day in January, which she enjoyed to the fullest. She is very involved in the Monmouth University community for many years.
Jeanette graduated Monmouth University in May 2006 with a Bachelor's Degree in Political Science and a minor in Psychology. After many years of attending school part-time, she successfully completed her education here all the while working full time, and raising her two daughters as a single parent. She was determined to complete her education so she could be a good example and role model to her daughters.

Jeanette's older daughter, Veronica, is a junior at Long Branch High School and Victoria is a fourth-grader and Honor Roll student at the Gregory School in Long Branch. The joy and pride is evident on Jeanette's face when she talks about the girls. Together they enjoy watching movies, going to Holmdel Park and swimming at the YMCA. Jeanette also likes to dance, dine out with friends, and to read. Over the past several years, Jeanette has been writing a book called, “Hey, Ya Wanna Laugh?” which looks at a life's journey through humor. She smiles and says, “It’s the only way to get through it!” The book is a compilation of all the funny and silly things that have happened while raising her daughters. Family is very important to Jeanette. One of her favorite events of the year is when they all get together for their Annual Family Reunion in New London, Connecticut. 😊
Thank you to everyone who participated in the American Cancer Society Relay for Life held on campus April 11 and 12. We had 31 teams, comprised of students, employees, family members, friends and neighbors who raised nearly $40,000 through individual donations and various fundraising events. Next year we hope to double the number of teams and the amount of money raised.

On Saturday, May 17 we will be taking a trip to New York City to see the Broadway show “A Chorus Line”. Tickets are $70.00 per person. This trip is sold out, but if you are interested, we can add you to the wait list.

We will be heading to the Bronx Zoo and the New York Botanical Garden on Sunday, June 29. We will be purchasing the “Pay One Price” Zoo tickets which include the Wild Asia Monorail, Skyfari Cable Car, Children’s Zoo, Congo Gorilla Forest, Butterfly Garden, Bug Carousel and unlimited use of the Zoo Shuttle. The cost of the trip, which includes bus fare, is:

- Adults - $38.00
- Children (ages 3-12) - $33.00
- Senior Citizens (ages 65+) - $35.00.

If you are interested in only the New York Botanical Garden, the cost will be $17.00 for the bus fare and then you will pay separate admission fees for the various exhibits at the Garden.

We also have discounted tickets to Six Flags Great Adventure for sale:

Say Hello To . . .

Martha Judge
Martha returned to her New Jersey roots in March when she joined the Department of Athletics in the capacity of Associate Athletic Director for Student Development. Martha is a graduate of St. Rose High School in Belmar and a member of the St. Rose Athletic Hall of Fame. She received a Bachelor of Arts in Sociology from St. Mary’s College in Indiana and a Master of Science in Physical Education from Eastern Illinois University. Martha brings with her 15 years of athletic administration experience, most recently as the Associate Athletic Director at Manchester College in Indiana.

Melissa Sweeney
Melissa joined the Controller’s Office as an accountant on December 3. She is a Monmouth University alumni, having received her Master’s Degree in Business Administration in 1995. Melissa completed her undergraduate degree in accounting and graduated Magna Cum Laude from Rutgers University. She has worked in a variety of accounting roles from being a self-employed independent accountant to managing and analyzing accounting departments.

Danielle Truppo
Danielle is the Counselor for Special Initiatives in the Undergraduate Admission office and joined Monmouth on December 17. She is a graduate of Lafayette College in Pennsylvania where she earned a Bachelor’s Degree in both Economics/Business and Art, and worked in the Admission Office as a campus tour guide. Since graduating, Danielle has worked at an investor relations firm in central New Jersey that services the precious metals and mining industry. She has also had the opportunity to participate in missions trips to Hong Kong, the Czech Republic and Mexico, and to serve in New Orleans on a hurricane Katrina relief team. Currently, Danielle is preparing for her July wedding.

On-Line Employment Process Coming Soon

The Office of Human Resources, in conjunction with the Office of Affirmative Action, Human Relations and Compliance, is nearing completion of the implementation of a new on-line employment process.

This new system, powered by People Admin, will enable managers to:

- Submit, forward and track the status of Personnel Requisitions approvals on-line
- Review Job Descriptions on-line which HR will convert into Postings, eliminating the need for search meetings
- Oversee Employment Applications on-line
- Manage Performance Appraisal completion/routing on-line

Meanwhile, the system will:

- Notify managers by e-mail when a task needs to be completed
- Send electronic communications to applicants
- Report on EEO and other employment statistics
- Separate qualified applicants from non-qualified applicants via questions regarding position requirements

Applicants will be able to:

- Complete an application on-line and attach documents if necessary
- View the status of all jobs for which they have applied
- Re-use/update their original application when applying to additional postings
- Use the system at home, in the library, in HR – wherever there is Internet access

The process improvements include savings in the following areas:

- Duplicating – applications will no longer need to be copied for hiring managers
- Postage – e-mail notifications will replace physical correspondence
- Data entry – applicants will key in their own data instead of HR personnel
- Screening – the system will separate qualified/unqualified applicants
- Phone Calls – applicants can view their status instead of calling HR

Initial focus group sessions were held during the third week of March. Final configuration and testing are being completed. Additional focus groups and specialized training will then begin in May and continue through the summer months. The system is scheduled to “go live” to campus on May 28.

People Admin, the leading provider of on-line human resource modules for higher education, credits its success to understanding the unique practices and processes found in Human Resource offices of leading Colleges and Universities and positive word-of-mouth among their existing clients. The company has grown from an initial six clients in 2002 to over 400 today.

Director for New Center for Excellence in Teacher and Learning (CETL) Named

Dr. Richard Veit, Associate Professor of History and Anthropology, has been appointed as the first director of the new Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning (CETL). The core of Monmouth University’s mission and identity is excellence in teaching and learning. As a student-centered campus Monmouth University has a rich tradition of strong teaching and academic support for student achievement and learning. At the same time, the University heretofore has not had a teaching and learning center campus-wide that can celebrate excellent teaching, help faculty develop as even better teachers, and provide the resources and space where faculty can have important conversations and share strategies on teaching and the meta-professional skills that are so essential to good teaching.

The work of CETL will have important implications and linkages for many other areas such as instructional technology, outcomes assessment and advising. In addition to receiving the University’s Distinguished Teaching Award for 2006-2007, Rich has many years of experience in advising students and is widely recognized as one of the University’s most outstanding “teacher-scholars”. As a tenured professor, he has also established a strong record as a leader on campus, most currently as the Chair of the Faculty Council.
Ask Kathy,

Do you have a question about benefits?

Just...

What can you do when your current physician leaves the Horizon Blue Cross Blue Shield of NJ network? What are your options if you prefer to use an out-of-network physician?

Many people think they have no alternatives when it comes to choosing a physician. It is customary to look at the list of doctors in the Horizon network and feel bound to that list. However, the Direct Access plan has an out-of-network option, and while there is a small deductible plus a co-insurance for these services, some physicians are willing to negotiate the amount that you pay.

For example, the Horizon Blue Cross Blue Shield of NJ Direct Access plan out-of-network benefits:

- Are subject to $250 individual deductible
- 80% of reasonable and customary charges will be paid by Horizon after the deductible is met
- Prior approvals may be needed in some cases for certain types of treatment
- No office visit co-pay is required
- Out-of-network claim form submission may be required in lieu of electronic submission.

Although there are many doctors and facilities that participate with Horizon’s Direct Access plan, there are some that do not. When faced with the situation of choosing out-of-network care, it is important to sit with your physician and have a conversation. While you will be responsible for the $250 deductible, you can ask if the doctor is he/she is willing to accept the 80% that Horizon will pay for out-of-network benefits. Please note that this payment will be for 80% of the reasonable and customary charge. Moreover, if the doctor’s fee is $350 but the reasonable and customary charge is $275, the expected out-of-network benefit is $220. If your doctor is not willing to agree to this type of arrangement, you could negotiate further by offering to pay the 20% co-insurance, which in the example above would amount to $55, bringing the total insurance benefit to $275 if your deductible has already been satisfied.

New Associate VP of Instructional Technology Services Named

Academic Affairs is pleased to announce the appointment of Wendy Savoth as the Associate Vice President of Instructional Technology Services, effective March 1. Wendy has an extensive background in instructional technology and management including work as an interactive instructional designer and developer and on-line learning architect in the corporate world, as well as much professional experience at Monmouth University as an instructional designer, software project manager, and director of instructional technology. She holds a B.S. in Education from the University of Connecticut and an M.S. in Computer Science from Monmouth University. Such credentials and experience will be most valuable as we at Monmouth University seek to develop and adapt our instructional programs to meet the needs of our students, our employees and our society at large.

Founding Director Named for New Institute for Global Understanding

Dr. Rekha Datta, Associate Professor and Chair of the Political Science Department, has been named as the founding director of the new Institute for Global Understanding, effective March 1. Rehka will be the chief administrative officer of the Institute, which replaces and builds on the impressive work that was undertaken by the Global Understanding Project and its community-based effort to encourage and promote awareness and activities concerning global issues.

She will be responsible for establishing excellence in global learning environments and understanding on campus, work with faculty, students and others to develop creative multi-disciplinary global programs, and support campus-wide global co-curricular and extra-curricular initiatives, including the annual global convention, within current funding allocations. An emphasis will be placed on engaging students in global matters.

In addition to being a founding and active member of the Global Understanding Project since 2001, Rekha has taught, written, and presented extensively on gender and global policy, global public policy, and security issues. She is author of Why Alliances Endure: The United States–Pakistan Alliance, 1954-1971 and the co-editor of Women in Developing Countries: Assessing Strategies for Empowerment. Among her honors are the Humanitarian of the Year Award from the National Council for Community and Justice in 2004 and Monmouth University’s Distinguished Teaching Award for 2003-2004. She is widely recognized as one of the University’s most outstanding “teacher-scholars” and as a pro-active leader on campus.

Answer to Where is This?

This fire-breathing dragon can be found above the fireplace in Room 106 in Wilson Hall. The former billiard room is a modified octagon in shape and features a groined ceiling and colorful painted friezes of medieval battle scenes.

If you would like to explore more of Wilson Hall, pick up a copy of the Self-Guided Tour brochure, available in University Advancement or the Office of Undergraduate Admission.
